EST. MODUS IN REBUS.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1886.

The latest news from Europe shows a strong war feeling. The combination will probably be Austria, England and Turkey against Russia. France it is said, is coquetting with Germany. This is very doubtful, the whole work of the last ten years is against such a supposition.

The yacht race, as was almost a foregone conclusion, has been won by the Mayflower. English yachtsmen will now probably cease in their effort to beat a center-board with a cutter. We believe the thing impossible. Every credit is due for the manner in which the races were conducted. It was a fair beat and is accepted as such.

The army bill which asks for a very modest sum was before the House on Saturday. According to the statement of the Minister of Interior the army is to be re-modeled on the plan of the Prussian army. When the House proceeded to discuss this bill matters came to a standstill because of Rep. Dickey's modest question, "What is an intelligence officer?" The united wisdom of the House could not grapple with the conundrum, so it had to be given up and referred to a select committee. The only thing the introducer of the bill knew was that an "intelligence officer" was attached to the Prussian army and if that was the case, why the Hawaiian army ought to have one.

His Excellency, H. A. P. Carter, took passage in the steamer Alameda, which left this port for San Francisco, at 6 p. m. Saturday last. His Majesty, the King, was on board to bid his envoy good-bye. Mr. Carter takes with him the good wishes of all classes, and during his stay here has received many flattering attentions, the most conspicuous among them being the testimonial presented to him by the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, as reported in another column. The service of silver referred to there, will represent a coin value of one thousand dollars, and is to be manufactured expressly for this purpose by the Gorham Silver Ware Company, of New York city. The execution of the order is entrusted to Mr. Joseph Brewer, of the firm of C. Brewer & Co., of Boston, who was also a passenger on the Alameda.

It is an old established and very useful custom in great Britain, that on the prorogation of the Imperial Parliament every member of the House of Commons hies him away to his constituency and, calling a general meeting of voters, he "gives an account of his stewardship." He strives to recapitulate the principal events of the session, to narrate and explain them as they appeared to a member of the House, to state plainly what vote he gave on each question and what were his motives for so voting. He challenges question and investigation, explains absences, non-votes, or apparent inconsistency, and puts himself generally into accord with his constituents.

Our Legislators here might well adopt so wholesome a practice. It would be, for instance, preeminently diverting if not instructive to see such a meeting between the members and the voters for the capital city.

A communication from Hilo relative to the assessment of taxes ought to have the attention of the Minister of Finance. If the planters have agreed to raise the value of their property, voluntarily, that should have been recognized by the tax assessor, and before raising on that advance he should have given notice to the parties interested. A little care and personal examination would do much to obviate any friction. In this country, as in all others, people are often esteemed as richer than they are. Property is really worth no more than it can fetch in the open market. There is many a plantation that if brought to the hammer, at the present time, would bring far short of what the owner values it at, and very far short of the valuation of the tax assessor. And this is true not only of plantations, but of small property as well, or perhaps it is even more true of small property. The whole system of assessment in Hawaii requires reform, but we shall have to wait another two years before we get it.

It seems a pity that all our eggs continue in one basket, and that so little energy is shown in creating new industries. However, Mr. Purvis, of Kukuhihale, is a noble exception, and we trust that his pioneer effort in Cinechona planting will draw others to try and follow in his footsteps.

Now there is tobacco. A thorough experiment might be made, and we believe success would crown the efforts of any one who went into the matter thoroughly. Such an effort is being made in Fiji, and why not here. In the first place good seed should be obtained. The tobacco grown here is too narrow in the leaf and has very strong veins. But seed from Havana, Sumatra and Java could be obtained which would give a desirable plant, instead of the coarse native variety. The choice of land is another important thing. Tobacco requires sandy soil. A thick heavy soil will raise a tobacco containing what is technically called "grease," which gives too much weight, and interferes with combustion.

Grow a good tobacco and it will not be difficult to obtain and acquire the requisite skill to cure it. A little enterprise would probably give an industry which would immensely benefit the country and which would make use of lands which are at present lying idle. We will strive to get more definite information on the subject.

The Bulgarian question has become more serious as it develops. Prince Alexander has been forced to resign, will he, nil he, and this in the face of a population ardently in his favor. If ever a man deserved to be popular it was Prince Alexander; he showed personal bravery in the field, he showed himself an able general, and he was an unostentatious and peculiarly careful monarch. But none of these qualities suited the ambition of Russia. The former are the very qualities she positively hates, save in her own countrymen, while the latter is entirely opposed to Russian character. Prince Alexander was a man of too enlightened ideas, too liberal a sentiment to suit Russian purposes in the Balkan Peninsula. The pressure on him has, of course, been immensely strong and a diplomatic intrigue has ousted him. Bismarck is averse to rousing up the Eastern question; Austria has been too much crippled to assert herself and Great Britain is now ruled by her mercantile interests and can do nothing for chivalry. A little outlying State like that of Bulgaria we may expect to go headlong to Hades. But though the powers may acquiesce in the removal of Prince Alexander and the placing of a less able man in his position, they will object to Russia actually annexing the country. The position is a critical one still, and may so turn as to force the reluctant Western powers into war.

The Opposition in the House may congratulate itself on a certain measure of success. Numerically small, easily to be voted down by the venal majority, it has still been able, by mere strength of logic and honesty of purpose, to defeat many an evil measure, and to lay bare, by mere force of persistence, the wrongdoing of the Cabinet, tearing the confession almost out of their hearts as it were. Question after question has been asked and answered with what grace the Ministry could find. The statement of the great indebtedness of the country would never have been laid before the House but for the action of the opposition members; the political malpractices of the estate of the Minister of Interior would never have seen daylight; the true inwardness of many a bill which threatens the public welfare would never have been shown but for the Opposition; in fact the Opposition have served the country well.

The Opposition have, however, been unable to curb the extravagance of those who by voting power held the purse strings, and the Appropriation Bill has reached the really appalling figures of $3,800,000, with every prospect of being raised to over $4,000,000. Sheer voting strength has cut down any opposition desire for retrenchment. There are on the bill now a number of items whose absence would tell better for the common sense of the majority than their presence. The fact is, the country cannot afford such an enormous Appropriation Bill, and in the face of constantly increasing debt, it is positive madness to spend, or propose to spend, the sums voted. Economy, and surely economy was the watch word of the Ministry when the session began, is certainly of a very curious kind when it proposes in the next two years that the expenditures should be double the national income.

There seems to be some doubt among a few people as to the accuracy of our charge against the Minister of Foreign Affairs relative to the four pos he made in writing a letter of remonstrance when he and his colleagues were not saluted. We have been told that there was not a word of truth in the matter. We have also been told that the King's standard was not flying on the yacht and finally that the two events occurred on different days. In reply we quote the following items from the Bulletin of the 16th, and the Advertiser of the 17th instants:

"This morning their Excellencies, Walter M. Gibson, Minister of the Interior and Robt. J. Creighton, Minister of Foreign Affairs paid an official visit to H. L. J. M.'s ship Tsukuba."

"His Majesty the King, accompanied by Col. Curtis P. Lanika, His Majesty's Chamberlain, were entertained on board the yacht Brunhilde this morning by Captain Phelps and Mr. Hillier. His Majesty went from the hotel to the yacht, and on his arrival there, the royal standard was hoisted. The Brunhilde was decorated with flags from stem to stern. His Majesty was accompanied by His Excellency Gov. J. O. Dominis, Major Hayley, Hon. Sam Parker, J. H. Paty Esq. and C. O. Berger Esq."—Daily Bulletin, Sept. 16.

"His Excellency Walter M. Gibson, Premier, and His Excellency Robert J. Creighton, Minister of Foreign Affairs, paid an official visit to H. L. J. M.'s training frigate Tsukuba shortly after noon yesterday."

"On Thursday Captain J. J. Phelps entertained His Majesty the King and a number of gentlemen on board the yacht Brunhilde. The Royal party started from the hotel at 10 o'clock, and on boarding the yacht the Royal standard was hoisted. The vessel was dressed from stem to stern with flags, and presented a very gay appearance. Capt. Phelps showed the party over the yacht, and the luxurious manner in which she is fitted up was much admired."—Pacific Commercial Advertiser, Sept. 17th.

It is really amusing to learn how quickly facts can be distorted and denied, even a few days after they have occurred and been chronicled.

The fact is the Minister of Foreign Affairs made a gross blunder, and the whole Cabinet is mortified at its having been made. The blame for the blunder rests on the Cabinet, but they were anxious to try in an underhand way, to create an opinion that it was not a blunder, and that the Gazette's accusation was a mere piece of political spite, to make a political point against them. The effort has been thoroughly abortive, for it has caused us to publish the facts as quoted above, and we now challenge a denial of the correspondence having occurred, if the organ dares to do it. Underhand means are not the best to gain a point. The Cabinet having received a slap in the face had better have accepted it with good grace.

Tax question of Chinese secret societies is one which assuredly must interest all in the community. From what we can learn there seems now, not only to be a disagreement between two of the societies, but there is a strong feeling in one society against certain members of their own body who have, or are supposed to have given information relative to the smoking of opium. There is therefore, an uneasy feeling in Chinatown, and for some days past a collision between the factions has been imminent. It may come to a general fracas; and it may blow over.

What however, is more alarming than the quarrels of the Chinese between themselves, is the knowledge that they are well armed and that they dare to use their weapons in the open street. Whether the particular Chinaman who was charged with firing the shots at Mr. Fagerroos, was the man who committed the crime or not, is not material to the argument. The crime was committed by some Chinaman; he was unlawfully carrying a deadly weapon, and for some supposed annoyance he was ready to draw the weapon, take the law into his own hands, and strive to kill a man walking along the highway. The Chinese are becoming pretty bold when they dare to perpetrate such a crime.

How many other Chinese ride about in backs carrying revolvers in their breeches' pockets, and are ready to fire at whoever does not get out of the way quickly enough we do not know.

We rather fancy if a search were made that a very large number go about armed habitually, and that all are possessed of arms stowed away in their dwellings. We remember the case of a mild little Chinese boy who was employed as steward. Besides performing his duties he was most anxious to learn, and was taught by his master, sent to Sunday school and so forth. He finally gave dissatisfaction and was summarily dismissed. His packing was superintended, and when his bed came to be taken to pieces, there were found (1) a heavy bludgeon, (2) a couple of heavy knives, similar to cane knives, but smaller, (3) two revolvers. The little Sunday school boy had certainly some pretty toys. Moreover, it is only necessary for any one to visit the houses of those who plant rice, and he will be surprised to see the number of arms displayed there. These arms are not mere rusty fowling pieces and worn out muskets for frightening away the rice birds, but good modern weapons.

The law upon the point is very clear. As it at present stands, nothing can be done to prevent the keeping of deadly weapons in houses, but the carrying them could easily be put a stop to. If the Marshal would use the power which is in his hands and obtain a few convictions, we should hear less of people drawing weapons on the street. The law reads as follows:

1. Any person not authorized by law, who shall carry, or be found armed with any bowie-knife, sword-cane, pistol, air-gun, slung-shot, or other deadly weapon, shall be liable to a fine of no more than thirty, and no less than ten dollars, or in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment at hard labor for a term not exceeding two months, and no less than fifteen days, upon conviction of offense before any district magistrate, unless good cause be shown for having such dangerous weapons; and any such person may be immediately arrested without warrant by the marshal, or any sheriff, constable, or other officer or person, and be lodged in prison until he can be taken before such magistrate.

IN THE LOBBY.

If there's a hole in a' your coats
I rode ye tent it.
A child's a man ye takin' notes
And faith he'll prent it.

I was at Carter's reception last Thursday, as there was a general invitation I thought I might ring in. John Dare was the only Minister present, till late in the evening, then Creighton glided in. It was evidently a load off John's mind for he whispered, "So glad you've turned up, you have been enquired for." Just fancy the feelings of the A. G. when our Foreign Minister was present. Creighton must feel badly also, for no doubt, as the spokesman of the Cabinet, he would have endorsed the Hon. C. R. Bishop's speech, eulogizing Mr. Carter. What a pity he did not have an opportunity to do it.

When the third reading comes up see if the Genealogy Board don't come in for $15,000 instead of $10,000. I shall be surprised. There is another little item of $100,000 which will burst upon you at an early date, at least so is the talk in the Lobby.

By the way why wasn't Gibson at the Carter reception? It was a fine affair and showed thoroughly how popular Mr. Carter must be. I guess Gibson don't like playing second fiddle any where.

Sauntering round round I have heard a good deal of playing on the Portuguese guitar. It is a sweet instrument and I have written the following song which I can recommend. It goes trippingly to the tune of "Climbing up the Golden Stair."

Sic iter ad Astra.

O' come you Legislators,
You may think you're great debaters,
Climbing up the office stair.
But you know you play the fool,
Like a pack of boys at school,
Climbing up the office stair.

There is Gibson with his measures,
Which some think will bring great treasures,
Climbing up the office stair.
But none know as well as he
That their end is twofold-dee!
Climbing up the office stair.

Chorus—
Oh! hear the dollars ringing,
"The sweet I do declare,"
Oh! hear the members singing,
Climbing up the office stair.

Then there's Dare, the Frisco lawyer
Who thinks he's a top Sawyer,
Climbing up the office stair.
Oh my! when he plays poker,
He's in a sweat and a shiver,
Climbing up the office stair.

Then Kanoo at the Finance
Finds that office is no penance,
Climbing up the office stair.
But my gracious! he can't tell
How soon he'll be — ah well,
Climbing down the office stair.

Chorus—
Then there's Creighton gets no credit
For the sheet he has to edit,
Climbing up the office stair.
And his Foreign Office biz
Is so much froth and fizz,
Popping up the office stair.

This queerly met collection
Of Hawaii's legislative session,
Climbing up the office stair.
A more curious set of men
Will be hardly found again,
Climbing up the office stair.

Chorus—
I forgot my friend Creighton last week, but better late than never. He says:
Call me anything you like, but do not do so gushingly. Remember I'm a stranger here, and I don't set any elementary my views, and I postponed them blushing.

Ignorance unparalleled affects me very much. Great is my desire my exalted rank to dignify. Hoping to be taken for a well trained diplomat. That I'm a dismal failure does not signify. "One of us" will help me out of that.

Nons verrous. Ziv.

More Portuguese Immigrants.

The British iron ship Amana, 1,220 tons register, Captain Alexander Beckett, arrived in port on the afternoon of the 23rd inst., 170 days from London, 147 days from Madeira. She left London April 6th, and arrived at Madeira on the 22nd. At the latter place she embarked Portuguese immigrants, and sailed on April 29th for this port. Captain Beckett reports very heavy weather at Cape Horn, and they were some consideration time in rounding that point. From the Horn to latitude 30 north, the vessel experienced the roughest kind of weather, the seas running mountains high, with gales of wind from the north-west. On several occasions they could not set any canvas. The Amana put in at Coquimbó August 10th to take in a few stores. She left Coquimbó on the 12th, and pleasant weather was encountered during the remainder of the voyage. The island of Maui was sighted on the afternoon of the 23rd, and the Captain reports that it was raining very hard on that island, which is welcome news.

The Amana was anchored in the stream, and has on board 146 men, 101 women; 15 males from 12 to 20 years; 7 females from 12 to 20 years; 140 children from 1 to 12 years, and 16 infants. Total, 475. Four infants died during the passage and there were ten births.

The vessel is consigned to Messrs. G. W. Macfarlane & Co., and has between four and five hundred tons of freight for Honolulu and seven hundred and fifty tons in transit for Portland, Oregon.

New York, Sept. 2.—Victoria Schilling, daughter of Morosini, the partner of Jay Gould, who married coachman Schilling just two years ago, has run away from her husband.
